ANNUAL MEETING

BOSTON, June 12, 1907.

THE Ninety-first Annual Meeting of the Congregational Education Society was held Wednesday afternoon, June 12, 1907, at two o'clock, in Pilgrim Hall, Congregational House, Boston.

The meeting was called to order by William R. Campbell, D.D.

Prayer was offered by Asher Anderson, D.D., of Cambridge.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and ordered to be printed in the usual form.

The Treasurer's report was presented and accepted.

Report of the Auditor was also accepted.

Report of the Directors was read by the Secretary and ordered to be printed."

The Secretary reported that, on the petition of the officers and Directors of the Society, an act had been passed during the current session of the General Court of Massachusetts enlarging the corporate powers of the Society, such act having been duly approved by the Governor on the twenty-fifth day of February last; and after the provisions thereof had been substantially stated and considered, on motion of J. Converse Gray, Esq., it was Voted, That the Congregational Education Society hereby accepts Chapter 143 of the Acts passed by the General Court of Massachusetts in the year 1907, the same being entitled, "An Act to enlarge the powers of the Congregational Education Society," of which Act the following is a true and correct copy:

SECT. 2. This Act shall be void unless the same shall be accepted by said corporation at a meeting called for that purpose, or at its annual meeting held next after the passage of this Act.

(Approved February 25, 1907.)

A Nominating Committee, consisting of Rev. Harris G. Hale, Mr. F. O. Winslow, and Rev. Clarence A. Vincent, D.D., was chosen to nominate officers for the next annual meeting and to bring in list of names for life membership. The committee was instructed to report in print.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS

IN the Department of Student Aid, 184 students have been helped; 29 of these are in college—12 less than last year—and 155 in theological seminaries. Of the total number, 8 have given their notes and the rest have taken the appropriations as grants. Thirty-five students in theological seminaries are fitting themselves to preach to Germans, Swedes, Danes, Norwegians, Bohemians, and Poles.

The Scholarship Fund for this department amounts to $152,766, par value, yielding about five per cent interest. This income, together with refunded aid, very nearly meets the demand made upon the treasury for this work.

Pacific Theological Seminary, California, and Andover Theological Seminary, Massachusetts, very generously agreed for this year to withhold applications for their students and make the necessary grant out of their student aid funds.

COLLEGES

Rollins, Fairmount, Redfield, and Kingfisher Colleges have been upon the Society's list. The trustees of the American International College, of Springfield, Massachusetts, feeling that it would be better to place the institution upon an undenominational basis, withdrew from their special relation to the Society.

Ten thousand dollars have been given to Fairmount College toward the endowment. The loss of President N. J. Morrison is keenly felt, but the trustees are full of hope and believe that the college is in a position to grow rapidly under the leadership of a new president.

Redfield College, South Dakota, has had a prosperous year and is helping to reach the foreign population in that section of the country, which consists largely of Russian-Germans. But its endowment is inadequate and should be greatly increased.

In Texas, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Nevada, Utah, Indian Territory, Arizona, New Mexico, Northern California, Arkansas, and in some of the Southern States, there are no Congregational colleges.

Most of these above mentioned states are having rapidly increasing populations, and higher educational facilities are not keeping pace with this growth. The Congregational Education Society looks at these fields with increasing interest, and feels that beginnings should be made in organizing such institutions as shall furnish preachers and leaders for these forming communities. The Society makes an earnest appeal for large donations of money to enable it to make the timely advances in this direction.

THE ACADEMIES

on the Society's list have been for the most part prosperous and report large accessions of students. The new academies, Phillips, North Dakota, Thorsby, Alabama, are making commendable growth.

Windom, Ward, Chadron, Kidder, Rogers, Franklin, and Procter Academies occupy peculiarly advantageous positions, some of them being frontier posts and are centers of commanding influence. They need endowment. All these academies must be fostered by the Society for years to come. North Wisconsin Academy has added two years' college course to its curriculum, and has changed its corporate name to Northland College. Ripon and Beloit Colleges, in the same state, are 200 and 300 miles to the south; but the steady growth of Wisconsin and the accessibility of this new college to the large areas to the north and west seem to justify the organization of a third college in that state.

Three new applications for academies are now before the Board of Directors: one in Arizona, one in Northern California, and one in the Indian Territory.

The recent Southern Congress of Congregational Churches in Dallas, Texas, calls attention to a new field of operation. Both Congregational churches and schools are needed in the South amongst those whom we have been in the habit of calling Southerners. Much of our missionary activity has been concentrated in the past upon the Negro and so-called Mountain White, but the field has broadened in the last few years, so that those acquainted with conditions in that section declare that the time has come for an advanced movement, especially along the line of higher education. The Education Society is ready to respond to this opportunity if the churches so desire and increased resources are provided for carrying on the work.

Utah and New Mexico, formerly occupied by the Congregational New West Education Commission, make demands on the Society far beyond its ability to meet. New points are calling for schools, and schools already placed sadly need reënforcement.

Procter Academy, in Utah, with its more than 300 students, could easily care for twice the number if it had dormitories and endowment. It is regarded as one of the leading educational institutions in Utah, and its growth should not be checked. The Society has no conflict with the Mormon people, and our teachers are expected to show a liberal Christian spirit and temper of mind in all their relations with the people among whom they labor. But it has a definite mission in checking the advances of a church hierarchy which is entirely out of sympathy with the purpose and spirit of our American Republic.

Within the past few years our attention has turned to the needs of the peoples south of us in Central America and South America. Here is a vast Spanish-speaking population which the missionary activities of our societies have overlooked. The building of the Panama Canal, and the growing interest in South American commerce, naturally suggests whether the time has not arrived to go into this immense territory with Christian churches and schools.

The Education Society, with its schools in New Mexico, practically on the border line of this great field, is the organization to which we look for the initiative in this movement. With this long look ahead, the Society has purchased sufficient ground for an institution in New Mexico which should combine the features of an industrial and missionary training school, to which our Home Missionary Society might turn for its preachers and helpers whenever it decides to occupy the new field. The Education Society appeals for necessary funds to open this school next year. Six thousand dollars are already in hand, but not sufficient to warrant a beginning. A few months ago a lad came 176 miles to one of our small mission schools, expecting to obtain industrial training, but was told that it could not be given. Whether we regard Mexico and the countries in Central America as foreign or home fields, the fact remains that such a training school is necessary and would find boundless opportunities for its graduates.

Through the generous donations of the Young People's Societies of Vermont, an attractive new school building was erected at Barelás, New Mexico, and has been named the Vermont School. This new building has already become a center of helpful influences for the entire community. Evening entertainments during the winter have been given, and it is proposed by the teacher to open a night school for young men.

By means of donations from the Massachusetts Woman's Home Missionary Association, a commodious new house was erected for our teachers at Atrisco.

The purchase of land adjoining our Industrial School site by a smelter company rendered it unfit for school purposes. The Directors, receiving a good offer, sold our property, and we were able to purchase a much better ranch of 160 acres and have $1,400 left over for the new building fund.

CUBA

For two years appeals have been addressed to the Education Society to coöperate with the Congregational Home Missionary Society and plant Christian schools in those cities in Cuba where churches had been organized. The seven cities already occupied by that Society afford unusual opportunities for higher educational institutions. Other denominations are wisely providing such schools near their churches, and our missionaries find that they must have this reënforcement of the Education Society if they are to do a permanent work on the island.

In order to be ready to meet this demand, the Education Society obtained an enlargement of its charter from the present legislature. The call seems providential; the demand is pressing; the referendum is here offered to the Congregational churches of our land. Whether we are hospitable to the new demand is beside the question; the denomination is already in the island. Shall the Education Society answer this appeal and accept an opportunity entirely unsought by us? What reply will the churches authorize the Society to make?

FOREIGN POPULATION

The Directors have felt that the time has come to make an advance movement along educational lines for the foreign populations. The denomination is at present carrying on such educational work through the German, Danish-Norwegian, and Swedish Departments of the Chicago Theological Seminary; the Slavic Department of Oberlin Theological Seminary; the Schauffler Missionary Training School in Cleveland, Ohio; Redfield College, among the Russian-Germans of the Northwest; the new Finnish Theological School at Revere; and the American International College, Springfield, Massachusetts, with its student body drawn from fifteen nationalities. While the latter school is interdenominational, it has a strong representation of Congregationalists on its Board and may therefore be claimed as one of our institutions

Early in the year the Education Society called a conference of the theological seminaries in the country, leading pastors and teachers, to consider this vital subject with the result that the Rev. Frederick H. Means was chosen to investigate certain phases of the immigration movement and report with special reference to the location and numbers of foreigners in our country; their accessibility to our denominational approach, both ecclesiastical and educational; and the work already carried on by other religious bodies.

Mr. Means has made a most valuable report, which will be made public and will result in more intelligent, harmonious, and efficient treatment of this great problem.

We feel that our Congregational churches should be aroused to the need of the hour, and by increased contributions enable the Society to provide such educational facilities as may be required.

As Congregationalism has in the past taken the lead in providing higher educational institutions among what may be termed our own people, so we are called upon today to keep in the front rank in providing the same higher education for the newcomers pouring in upon us from the four points of the compass.

In this connection, the Directors consider it timely to state the policy of the Congregational Education Society in carrying on the work intrusted to it by the churches.

The Society has had a steady evolution; first organized to induce men to enter the Christian ministry by providing financial help, it soon broadened its efforts to the establishing of colleges. It was then found that these colleges needed secondary schools as feeders, and Christian academies were next taken up and helped. Next followed the planting of mission schools among peoples who are foreign in spirit and training to our national life. The field of this work is Utah and New Mexico, and the mission is far from being ended. Finally comes the call to provide for the immense immigration to our country and for the peoples in other lands which may in time come under our political supervision. There has been a steady broadening of the Society's mission. It has passed wholly beyond the vision of the fathers. They could not foresee the various and mighty demands which, as the years rolled by, would be made upon the little organization they had brought into existence. We are inclined to think, also, that the Congregational churches of our country have not realized the increasing importance of this educational department of our great Home Missionary activities. The time has come to realize it and to enable the Society to do this larger work.

The policy of the Education Society is to consider^e itself a part of the general Home Missionary scheme. Not only that, but it goes so far as to hold that it can carry on its God-given mission only as other great Home Missionary boards are held in the generous support of the churches.

Colleges and academies cannot be effectively administered by the Boston office, but by a strong, intelligent local board of trustees. The college and academy will furnish material for strong churches, and the churches will in turn sustain and administer wisely the college and academy. Each is necessary to the other. Already such hearty coöperation exists between the Education Society and the other home boards, and this coöperation will be made vastly more effective when the churches rally to a more hearty support of the forward Home Missionary movement, which should at once be organized for the salvation of home and native land.

REPORT OF WESTERN FIELD SECRETARY

Rev. Theodore Clifton, D.D.

MUCH time and effort have been devoted each year during the past nine years to specific appeals for educational institutions on the Society's list, and always, as indicated in past reports, with good results. But the present year, by vote of the Directors, has been devoted almost wholly to campaigns of education to deepen the interest of the churches of the Interior in the general work of the Society with a view to increased loyalty and support. The immediate financial result of this change of base in appealing for funds from the specific to the general has been a decline of income over the past two years. Yet, notwithstanding this decline, the income from the West this year has been nearly $5,000 greater than that of any previous year save the last two, thus indicating a permanent as well as a growing interest.

But while most of the year has been given to the general cause, as indicated, a few institutions in special need have been incidentally helped; among them Ward Academy in South Dakota, Procter Academy at Provo, Utah, and the Foreign Institutes affiliated with Chicago Theological Seminary. Besides these, through other efforts of former years, Eureka Academy, Kansas, reports $1,000 and Whitman College, Walla Walla, Washington, a gift of $3,000 from a Lady Bountiful in Seattle; and still other institutions not directly helped with money have felt and gratefully acknowledged the impetus and uplift of the Society's work.

In all campaigns of education for the general cause, in order to economize time and expense of travel, the policy has been to give special attention to one state at a time. Last year several months were devoted in this way to Michigan, with the result that the income from that state that year was one of the largest in its history. This year chief attention has been given to Illinois and with a like result, the income from Illinois during the year being somewhat larger than that of any previous year in the history of the Society's work in the West. During the year fifty-one of the Illinois churches, many of them among the largest and strongest in the state, have been reached, and the Society has had a generous hearing at the meetings of the Fox River, Aurora, Elgin, Quincy, Central, and Rock River local associations.

But attention through the year has not been confined entirely to Illinois. The cause of the Society, as opportunity offered, has had a good hearing in some of the churches of other states; notably, North Dakota, Ohio, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Michigan, as also before the state associations of Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and North Dakota. More difficulty than usual has been experienced this year in reaching the state association meetings for the reason that so many of them were held at precisely the same time in these immense and widely separated empires. In all, 115 addresses have been delivered, and the congregations, with only an occasional exception, have been large, sympathetic, and responsive.

More special and urgent efforts than usual have been put forth this year to reach individual donors through the mails. Hundreds of personal letters have been sent out to as many givers, appealing for help for the general cause, but with disappointing results. While all replies received have been cordial, and while many of them have been congratulatory because of the good work of the Education Society, only a few have contained checks for immediate relief or promises of future assistance. The great majority have been letters of regret because of inability to give, thus repeating the lesson so often learned by experience that about the only way to get money in any considerable sums for the educational cause here in the West is to go after it in person and in dead earnest for some specific and urgent need.

On the whole the year has been a good one. Some items of encouragement have been indicated. Among others that deserve special mention has been the discovery of one will and one legacy in these interior states, amounts as yet unknown, but prophecies, it is to be hoped, of other remembrances of like character in the years to come to supplement the gifts of the churches to sustain a great and growing cause.

The following minute, prepared by Rev. Simeon Gilbert, D.D., was placed on the records of the Congregational New West Education Commission at its annual meeting in Chicago in connection with the resignation of Dr. Savage as Secretary of that Society:

While, of course, it is not possible adequately to express how much of the efficiency of the New West Education Commission throughout its active existence, from its official beginning down to date, has been due to the services of Dr. G. S. F. Savage as its Recording Secretary, we can at least put on record our deep gratefulness for it all. To keep a perfectly intelligent and accurate record, from meeting to meeting, from year to year, of all the essential acts and proceedings of the Society, so that always and at every point we might understand the entire situation, has constantly been of vital importance. If the Society during these years, in all its varied relations to the work at home and in the field, has taken the right measures, and done so at the opportune time, the happy result, it is plain to see, has been greatly due to Dr. Savage. And this especially in view of the fact that he has not only had at instant command the records in the book, but has also, by reason of his remarkable memory, been able at once to explain the facts relating to any specific case under discussion. Moreover, coupled with this, there has been a peculiar insight and practical sagacity for affairs, and a personal judgment that has rarely if ever been found to be mistaken.

In a few days from now Dr. Savage will have reached his ninetieth birthday. Very wonderful seems to us to have been the good hand of God upon him, not merely in the remarkable preservation of his life, but especially in the sweet continuance unto him of the so fresh and beautiful completeness of all his mental, dispositional, and spiritual qualities, naturally causing him to be so profoundly loved and revered by us all—his name being held throughout the denomination, as well as by ourselves, clarum et venerabile, equally dear and venerable. Wherefore, we thank God, and Dr. Savage, too!

At the above meeting Rev. Edward S. Tead was elected Secretary of the Congregational New West Education Commission in place of Rev. Dr. G. S. F. Savage, resigned.

THE WORK OF THE WOMAN'S HOME MISSIONARY ORGANIZATIONS THROUGH THE CONGREGATIONAL EDUCATION SOCIETY

THE amount received from these organizations was $19,761.36, a shrinkage from the receipts of last year. The stars in the list below indicate the states that increased their gifts.

The women of Vermont made a special contribution for a new schoolhouse in Barelás, New Mexico, which has been named the Vermont School.

The Massachusetts women made a contribution sufficient to erect a teacher's house at Atrisco. Special contributions are asked for this year to enable the Society to build the Industrial School and be ready to open in the fall of 1908.

CHICAGO THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY FOREIGN DEPARTMENTS

German Institute

Professor H. Obenhaus

THE number of our students during the past year was 11, 3 of whom graduated. One graduate is in Western Colorado, having gathered there, according to reports, a church of 80 members; another one preaches in Northwestern Nebraska; and the third serves an English church in North Dakota. All our undergraduates are preaching in summer fields, and the outlook is bright for the incoming class.

Owing to the raising of our standard of entrance this year we were obliged to turn away several men applying for admission. One student of last year's junior class was advised not to return because of deficient scholarship.

On account of lack of funds one of our teachers, Prof. O. H. Kraft, having given to the institute four years of efficient service, discontinued his work. This will throw the principal work of teaching in our department upon one man.

The Home Missionary Society has, however, for the present generously given permission to its superintendent of German work, Dr. M. E. Eversz, to give a part of his time to instruction—a service which he has rendered before, which, with closer coöperation of the other departments of the seminary in the combining of classes, will in a measure make good the loss.

The German Congregational churches looking to us for preachers number at present about 170 and are rapidly increasing in membership and number of organizations.

Swedish Institute

Professor Fridolf Risberg

The number of students has been 24, viz., 7 in the senior class, 12 in the middle class, and 5 in the junior class, which is a little smaller number than last school year.

Fifteen of these students have come from Congregational churches, the balance from independent churches. Eleven have come from the Eastern states and 13 from Chicago and the West.

In the graduating class 3 now are pastors in Congregational churches in the East, 2 will study in some academy or college, and 2 have taken charge of independent churches or home mission field.

During the school year 8 students have had regular charge of Swedish churches in Chicago and vicinity; 12 others have been preaching more or less regularly, 2 of whom have had mission work among the Finns; all students in the two upper classes have preached regularly in our Swedish Bethlehem (Congregational) Church, which is an outcome of our students' work twenty-one years ago. Professor Peterson is pastor of that church and conducts these meetings. The students in the junior class have led the prayer meetings, and some students have had Sunday school classes there.

The Danish-Norwegian Institute

Professor J. A. Jernberg

We have had 10 students in our institute this year. The only man who graduated was Markus J. Andersen, who has gone to be the pastor in the oldest Norwegian settlement in the West, the Fox River settlement in Illinois.

Our middle class of 5 men were called into active service for the summer as soon as the seminary closed, and they are located as follows: 1 in the state of Washington, 2 in North Dakota, 1 supplying the pulpit of our newly organized church in Cleveland, Ohio, and 1 as assistant pastor in Boston. This indicates the widespread influence of our work in this country, while 4 of our former students this summer are visiting Norway and are scattering the good seed wherever they go in that land among their own people.

Last year one of our graduates went out with his bride as a missionary to Venezuela; another is going this year to China. He is supplying the pulpit of his home church in Brooklyn during the summer, while the pastor is making a visit to Norway and Denmark. A new church was also organized in Madison, Wisconsin, and one of our last year's graduates ordained and installed as its pastor.

The financial problem of our work has loomed up large and threatening during the year and seemed at one time to overwhelm us. But disaster was averted by the generous aid of the Education Society, and especially by the timely intervention of the Congregational Home Missionary Society.

The appointment of Prof. O. C. Grauer as superintendent of our Norwegian work not only relieves the seminary of the responsibility for his salary, but will make a bond between the Norwegian churches and the institute which must be to the great advantage of both. The outlook for the future has never been brighter, and we have had many tokens of God's approval of our work.

COLLEGES

Fairmount College, Wichita, Kansas

Professor W. H. Isely

The ninth annual Commencement exercises of Fairmount College were concluded on the morning of June 5. On this occasion Dr. E. F. Williams, on behalf of the faculty, conferred the Bachelor of Arts degree on 20 young men and women. It was a fine class, especially for an institution so young in years. But Fairmount College is located in a very important center, and in its brief history has already graduated 95 young persons from its collegiate department. During the present Commencement no less than fifty diplomas and certificates were granted by the various departments of the institution.

The past year has been a year of continued growth and progress. The collegiate department increased from 92 to 110. The total enrollment in all departments was 316. The religious work throughout the year has been stimulating and progressive. Six young men of the college are fitting themselves for the ministry.

During the year the institution suffered the loss of its first president. Dr. N. J. Morrison died very suddenly on the morning of April 12. Dr. Morrison was known throughout the nation as an eminent educator. His work in founding Olivet, Drury, and Fairmount was a great work. These institutions are enduring monuments to his genius, his foresight, his sacrifice, his devotion to the cause of Christian education. Owing to the location, Fairmount will doubtless rank as his most important achievement. He gave to this institution a great outlook, a broad basis, a lofty purpose that will endure through time. "Unto the Perfect Man" was the motto selected for the college by Dr. Morrison. He is gone, but his work lives to bless and enrich mankind.

The prospects for the future are very encouraging. A large freshman class will enter next September. During the summer active work will begin on the Carnegie Library building. Enlargement is planned for the departments of physics, chemistry, and biology. Every feature of the institution is growing and promises continued expansion for many years to come.

Kingfisher College, Kingfisher, Oklahoma

President J. T. House

This institution rejoices in the completion of the second $100,000 endowment. Dr. Pearsons sent his check to the college on July 1. Of the entire sum Dr. Pearsons gave $25,000 and Andrew Carnegie $25,000. The Education Society gave $5,000.

Those who labor in this school believe that it has a mission peculiar to itself—a mission to self-dependent, self-respecting, poor young people. Oklahoma has few paupers, few incorrigibles, and no degenerates. It does have a host of youth who must secure education by their own unaided efforts. The number of applicants for admission to our school who have the means to pay their way is about one-tenth as large as of those who ask if “there is any way by which I can work to pay my expenses.”

Kingfisher is not an eleemosynary institution. It does not even grant scholarships except on merit. But it does seek to furnish opportunity to work to those who need it. The college owns 300 acres of land, on which it operates a dairy, market garden, broom factory, stone factory, and general farming.

A friend and trustee, ex-Gov. A. J. Seay, has given the college a valuable building as a home for self-dependent young people. We seek gifts to build up this department of the school. The dairy, garden, and broom factory should all be enlarged, and such enlargement would assist other young people whose requests for work have been refused, with the result that as yet they are not in school.

We have a dozen good cows. We could care for seventy-five. Our broom factory furnishes employment for ten. It ought to be three times as large. In such work a little money can be made to go a long way. Two hundred dollars would double the size of the broom factory. Five hundred would do the same for the dairy.

But Kingfisher College is not an industrial school. It is a high grade institution of learning.

Our Rhodes scholar, Mr. C. D. Mahaffie, has just taken his B.C.L. degree at Oxford after only two years of residence. Only one other has taken that degree in so short a time. There are three "classes." Only two ranked one, three ranked two, of whom Mahaffie was one. All others ranked three or received no special rank. So much for a Kingfisher boy who earned his living while in college here. May others be enabled to emulate his example.

Redfield College, Redfield, South Dakota

The past year has been a prosperous one with Redfield College.

The attendance has been good and the spirit of unity among the students has been marked.

We have been blessed with a gracious revival which seemed to spring up spontaneously. Many of the students united with the church. Several in addition to the fourteen or fifteen already looking forward to the ministry have been led to choose the ministry, and several have consecrated themselves to the foreign missionary service.

Extensive improvements costing seven or eight thousand dollars have been made by finishing the new building and putting in a steam plant for both the new building and the boys' dormitory.

The receipts have been fairly large, but not enough to cover running expenses and cost of improvements.

But little progress has been made on the $50,000 of new endowment needed to secure Mr. Carnegie's gift of a library building.

Miss Finger has presented the wants and worth of Redfield

College to the Eastern churches, and we hope for ample gifts for our many needs.

Rev. Herman Seil retires from the presidency, and Rev. Lauriston Reynolds, who has been financial agent for five years, has become pastor of one of our South Dakota churches.

Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida

President William F. Blackman

Rollins College has now reached the limit of growth with its present equipment. Every room in its dormitories is occupied; its dining hall and chapel are full; it has an insufficient number of recitation rooms; its facilities for scientific work are pitifully inadequate; its library is small and housed in an inconvenient and inaccessible room.

Three things it possesses: a beautiful campus, a consecrated and able teaching force, and a considerable endowment fund, securely invested and guaranteeing the future of the institution; but without an expansion of its buildings and equipment it must remain hereafter practically at a standstill.

The state is rapidly growing in population, in wealth, and in interest in education. The Spanish-speaking people in Cuba are calling loudly for education of the American type.

Rollins could easily quadruple the number of such students next year if it could take care of them; and American families in Cuba are constantly increasing in number. Thus our constituency is growing in size, in appetite for higher education, and in ability to maintain its youth in college. Meantime, the college itself has made no corresponding growth in equipment for a number of years.

Our friends, and the friends of the South, ought immediately to make it possible for the college to erect a hall of science, a hall of arts, a boys' dormitory, a library and administration building, and a chapel.

Two of these—the library and administration building and the dormitory—are already pledged, conditionally, on our raising a reasonable additional sum of money. Shall we appeal for this in vain?

The year has been marked by four events: (1) The residence at the president's house during the entire winter of our benefactor, Dr. D. K. Pearsons, whose initiative and generosity gave us our endowment fund of $200,000, and whose interest in the college and faith in its future are un-failing; (2) the appointment as Rhodes scholar at Oxford University of one of our students, he being the only student in a Florida institution to pass successfully the examinations; (3) the establishment of perpetual scholarships by the heirs of J. H. Wyeth, long a trustee, and by Mr. A. E. Angier, of Boston; and (4) the healing of the unhappy division which had long existed among the Congregational churches of Florida, in which happy event officers of the college took the initiative. The way now seems clear for a healthy growth of Congregationalism in the state. The college is also exerting a growing influence in favor of comity and coöperation among denominations.

While its president is a loyal Congregationalist, the college as an institution claims to be unsectarian both in control and in spirit, and is increasingly attracting the confidence of Christian people of all confessions.

ANNUAL REPORT, UTAH

Rev. S. H. Goodwin, Superintendent

CONDITIONS in general remain much as they were a year ago. The long-drawn-out Smoot case has been disposed of. The vote in the Senate was determined by politics and by a shifting from the real issue. To many people polygamy appeared to be the chief issue. But the point of the protest was that there exists in this state a powerful ecclesiastical organization that requires of its adherents absolute obedience in things spiritual and material; that it places its edicts above the laws of the country—which its leaders confess they violate—that it uses methods which are subversive of the very genus of our institutions, and that it is strong enough to enforce upon its followers its every judgment and law.

From this it was argued that Senator Smoot is not free to act as an independent American citizen, but that when required to do so he must carry out the mandates of the church authorities. Such was the gist of the charges. But when, at the end of four years, the matter came to a vote, other issues had obscured the original charges. Polygamy, which was used by the protestants to illustrate one way in which the laws of the country are disregarded, appeared to be one of the chief issues; and religious freedom, for which every man must stand, was injected into the controversy and was really at the fore when the vote was taken, and political expediency did the rest.

Speaking of polygamy, of course the attitude of the church authorities toward this practice is well known. This was emphasized by B. H. Roberts—one time congressman from this state—in an address in the Tabernacle at Salt Lake City, on June the 9th of the present year. He said:

"So far as I am concerned I stand exactly where I did ten years ago, viz., that though the church proclaimed against the continuance of this relationship, though the state proclaimed against it, neither the state nor the church may absolve the moral obligations that I am under, or release me from that moral duty."

Mr. Roberts has three wives.

But all this conflict and stirring up of bitternesses and animosities seem not to have affected our work to any considerable degree, at least. We have moved steadily forward, seeking to accomplish the largest and best results. Here and there in some of the smaller places our schools have felt the touch of a power that is strong enough to take pupils from the classroom.

Our prosperous work over at Vernal has not entirely escaped in this respect. The new president of that stake, who had given a good account of himself in another field in which we have a school, has put new life into the church school in that place, and is drawing the lines in such a way as to make his presence felt. However, we are handicapped more in Vernal by inadequate quarters and equipment than by any other factor.

Our new schoolhouse is as large as the society could build at the time of its erection, and accommodates three of the five departments of the school; the other two are housed in the church building some rods distant. This is bad for the work, and, besides, the use of such a building reflects on the character of the work we are trying to do, for it seems to indicate that we have simply a church school (a term of reproach when applied to the school work of Christian denominations). This condition must certainly affect the attendance.

Hardly second in importance to the need of an enlarged school building is that of a dormitory. Students can be drawn from all parts of that beautiful Ashley Valley, from the Reservation, and from the scattered ranches and stagecoach stations all the way to Dragon, sixty-five miles distant. But the difficulty of securing satisfactory boarding places is one that we cannot overcome. The matter resolves itself into a question of meeting these needs or of crippling our work—when we should be providing for its expansion—and lessening the productive power of the capital already invested. The need of another teacher became apparent some weeks before school opened last year, and the people of the place contributed a part of the money required for her salary. A school that has gone from one teacher in an empty saloon building to five teachers, its own building, and an enrollment of 190 pupils, all in four years, is certainly a work that deserves consideration.

At Lehi the crowded condition of one department and the numerous grades, including three high school subjects, in the other made necessary additional help there. An assistant, a graduate of the school and resident of the town, was secured for the place, and the three workers had full hands all the year.

Procter Academy, our largest school in the state, has had an unusually prosperous year, and this in spite of insufficient teaching force and equipment. Eight years ago, when the present principal took charge, five teachers did the work; now eight are employed, and we must have another if the work is to keep pace with the demands made upon us. As an illustration of changed conditions: at that time the principal and one assistant did the work in the high school and the principal had two classes in the grammar department. During the year just closed the principal (who is also superintendent of our educational work in the state, and makes a monthly visit to each of the several schools) had five periods in the classroom daily, the first assistant had every period and recess full, and the second assistant was busy every period but one, and this without any provision for music and drawing.

Further, hitherto we have not given chemistry because we had no laboratory. But we are to be crippled in this particular no longer. A laboratory is now being put in and equipped, and will be ready for use at the opening of the school year.

Again, for several years there has been a growing demand for a course in stenography. The great school of the Mormon Church, located here, makes much of this work, and it is given a place in the regular course of the best high schools of the state. This year we expect to have a teacher in the grammar department who can teach stenography—she has had actual business and court experience. But some one must take her classes while she gives instruction in shorthand. The work in stenography is of especial importance to us, more for the reason that it will bring young people to us who can be induced to take up other subjects in the high school than for any special value of the work itself.

Still further, the necessity for dormitory accommodations is more and more pressing upon us. We simply cannot find suitable boarding places for those who would come to us from outside towns, and every year we lose students because we cannot take care of them. Hungerford Academy (Presbyterian) in Springville, six miles away, with one-third our enrollment and only about one-half as many high school students as Procter, has two dormitories, one of which was finished last year, and is modern in all its appointments.

These are the more imperative of the needs of Procter Academy. We simply must meet the demands made upon us or go down. Here we have the largest work in the state; there is ample field for development; the school has a prestige that has come as a result of high-class work and sane methods; our students and graduates of the years that lie behind are making their influence to be felt in all the various walks of life, and they are loyal to us and are sending their children to us—that fact alone speaks volumes for the abiding character of our work. We cannot afford to cripple a work that is so full of promise. And just now, when opportunities of service are multiplying and the call for men and women is greater than ever before, we must not lag; we must rise to the occasion, or be inexcusably untrue to the great interests that have been committed to us.

I venture to give the following, without apology, to illustrate the manner in which this school and its teachers are making themselves to be felt in the life of the community and the state. Our teachers are members of literary and civic clubs here in the city, and are among the organized workers in the larger movements of the state. The principal is a member of the public library board and on its building committee; for four years he has represented his ward in the county (political) convention; he has served on an important educational commission under appointment by the governor; recently he was offered the chair of English in the Agricultural College of the state, and when that was declined the board of trustees created a new department—that of economic ornithology—and made him head of the department and a member of the regular faculty of the institution, at the same time leaving him free to live in Provo and carry on his work for the Education Society.

These facts are mentioned, I repeat, to illustrate how this school is making its presence to be felt, not in one direction, but in many. They also show how conditions are changing, how the leaven of better things is working, and how barriers of other days are yielding to the steady pressure of a Christian manhood and womanhood. An institution which is helping to bring in these more desirable conditions ought to receive the consideration and support commensurate with the work it is doing.

Only a word can be said in behalf of the extension of our work into new fields. The opening and settlement of the Reservation afford new openings and opportunities for work. The people who are establishing their homes there are poor in money, but that great area is being developed, and in due time prosperous communities will dot the entire region. In the meantime the people are calling for schools. What shall be done?

Within a year or two great strides have been taken in the matter of "arid farming," or "dry farming," as it is more often called. That is, vast areas which hitherto had furnished little besides a sage brush diet for sheep are being cultivated, it having been found that this land—a desert, it seemed to be—will grow certain crops and yield large returns. This means a great development and the building of towns in favored localities. Are we to stand with our hands tied, looking on while this material development goes forward and make no attempt to enlarge the bounds of our work? Workers out here in this great inland empire—larger than all New England—strain to catch the word of command. What is it to be? "Speak to my people that they go forward?"

Bountiful

The school closed May 31 this year, because after the public schools close our children feel that they also should be dismissed. The report for the year is similar to last. Enrollment, 50; average attendance, owing to removals and stormy weather, perhaps not quite so good.

Again we have a single graduate, but have quite a good-sized class who should finish next year. There has been nearly regular monthly preaching services this year on Sunday afternoons, followed by Sabbath school.

Rev. P. A. Simpkin, of Phillips Church, Salt Lake, has usually been the preacher, and he draws a good audience. The Sabbath school has been self-supporting entirely this year. A Sabbath School Convention for the county—representing three schools—was held here in April and was much enjoyed. A meeting of the few Christian people of the county is very helpful, where each feels so greatly the deprivation of church services and congenial Christian friends for so much of the year.

Coalville

The number of grades taught this year has been 10. The school opened with an enrollment of 6, but during the year

35 have been added. The daily attendance has seldom been less than 17, and quite often has reached 24, till the last week it has decreased on account of some having to work and others moving away. An eighth grade student will attend Gordon Academy next year.

The Sunday school steadily increased during the fall and winter, though the attendance never exceeded 15. There has been a constant campaign against the children who attend the school and Sunday school. The children are anxious to come, and several times have slipped away from their parents.

Heber

Notwithstanding the brilliant prospects last spring, the school opened in September with a comparatively small attendance. Several families had moved during the summer. Also the efforts last year to have a high school, and the success which attended them in spite of the opposition, aroused the citizens to the need of such an institution, and one was opened in September.

As they took not only graduates of the public school, but also those who had failed to pass their examinations, it doubtless made a great difference in our own attendance, but it is a good thing for the community generally.

Then in the winter there was reason to think a good many pupils were coming from one of the public schools where things seemed to be not wholly satisfactory to the parents. However, a new teacher(a Gentile) was sent for from out of the state, and that settled matters.

We had also a private class for advanced students two evenings a week during the winter.

For some reason our Sunday school has been larger this year than it was last spring, in spite of the moving. Occasionally we have only 17 or 18 present, but usually more. On the whole the outlook is encouraging.

Enrollment, 58; average attendance, 35.

Lehi

This school year has been a bright one for the Lehi Mission School in many respects. There has been no contagious disease to interfere with the regular work, and the beet crop was late this spring, so hardly any had to leave before the close of school. Then the weather has been mild all year, allowing a large per cent of attendance even in the primary department.

The enrollment for the year was 103, while the average attendance was 66. All grades from beginners to tenth were represented. This year Miss Porter had the largest entering class since she became connected with the school.

Three entertainments, one at Thanksgiving, one at Christmas, and one at graduation, have been given by the school this year, and they did not interfere with regular study and recitation periods. The Sunday school had an entertainment at Easter. Miss Harwood, the new teacher, won the high regard of all the pupils. It has not been necessary to have corporal punishment at all above the fourth grade; just a word, a quiet talk alone with the pupil, or a mild rebuke was sufficient to settle all difficulties.

Willcox School, Vernal

Enrollment, 190; average attendance, 120.

The school building, first occupied in November, 1906, was filled to its full capacity soon after the opening day (September 10) by the first seven grades alone. The eighth grade and the high school department have been once more dependent on the kindness of the trustees of the church for accommodation, the main room of the building answering alternately for school and audience room.

The year was one of busy, uninterrupted work. Tension was relaxed on one or two occasions, when the school enjoyed an outing in the valley. Easter holidays were omitted to give the pupils opportunity to finish their work by the end of May and join their parents on the Reservation, or similar near points, where all available help was needed.

It is impossible to see how any beginners could have been received or any primary department maintained without the help of our fifth teacher, Miss Davis, whose devoted work in that sphere will be remembered long after her regretted departure.

The pupils of the school have entered largely into the interest of the reorganized young people's society, whose meetings and monthly socials have formed a pleasant feature of the year. All such influences brought to bear on these boys and girls tell powerfully at this critical time. All efforts, however, must be hampered so long as there is no boarding department in which the meaning of "sweetness and life" can be made plain by daily living and a true home atmosphere. Those who have been studying the problem at close range regard a dormitory not merely as a convenience to pupils from a distance, but as a chief resource in influencing the heart of the Utah problem in a handful of young persons, at least. And whatever the present hindrances, the future attendance of the school will undoubtedly be limited only by its receiving capacity, provided the standard be maintained.

NEW MEXICO

Annual Report of Rev. J. H. Heald, Superintendent

THERE are some things the schools of the Congregational Education Society in New Mexico have not yet been able to do. They have not been able to change the Mexican into an Anglo-Saxon. He will remain a Mexican to the end of the chapter. But he can become a better Mexican, and is becoming such under the enlightening and uplifting influence of our schools.

Indeed, those of us who know him best have no desire to de-Mexicanize him. We need all the Mexicans we can raise in New Mexico. But we would be glad to produce a better article in the next generation. I may add that the same development is equally to be desired in our American population.

Our schools have not been able to undo all the effect of false teaching imparted during 300 years, for error is not easily uprooted; but they have planted the seed of truth that we confidently believe will crowd out error in due time. They have convinced many that the Bible is a safe book to read and follow, which is a great step and one that will have far-reaching results. They have not been able to eradicate all the superstitions that have inevitably crept in during centuries of isolation from the influences of civilization. But they have turned the current in the direction of intelligent thinking.

I have lately been trying to turn the course of the Rio Grande where it threatens to devour some of our land. I have found that while the powerful and treacherous stream is able to sweep away the most solid obstructions we can place in its way, a tree top, or even a bush, placed in the current and anchored there sometimes serves to deflect the course of the river. It is difficult to turn the course of a people's life—never more so than when it sets in the direction of superstition. A schoolbook anchored to the hand of a little child is the bush that we have found most effective in turning the current of ignorance and superstition.

Our work for the Mexican people advances and improves with time and experience. This is no ordinary school-teaching. It takes years to become expert in a work of this peculiar character. Our most experienced workers are constantly gaining new ideas that make the work more effective. While the new workers have done well, the older and more experienced ones are able to do far better work than is possible to the novitiate.

There has been great advancement this year in all our schools in the use of the English language. San Mateo, which has hitherto been somewhat backward in this respect, deserves the palm for progress in this particular. The pupils, who have hitherto shown great timidity in attempting to use the English words they knew, have plucked up courage under the stimulus of Miss Lamson's constant encouragement, even to the extent of addressing the Superintendent in the English language, on his visits.

There has also been great progress in several of our schools in industrial work. In this respect the school at Barelas takes the palm for the number, variety, and excellence of its productions. We would not, under any consideration, give up the industrial element in our school work, as it has proved to have great value, not only for its prospective practical usefulness to the pupil, but also in awakening and holding interest in the school and as an added aid to mental development. Several of our schools have been greatly handicapped in this work by lack of means to purchase materials. Here is an opportunity for the small contributor to make a gift that will be highly useful and greatly appreciated.

There has been marked improvement, also, in the regularity of attendance. Seboyeta, which was our worst school in this respect, this year takes the palm for regularity of attendance. Miss Gibson has shown the effectiveness of our Lord's injunction, to "go out and compel them to come in," when resolutely carried out.

There has been marked improvement in the public schools in several towns where our schools are located. To this end our schools have largely contributed by their example and influence. Even the priests have been compelled to help the movement for better public schools by their desire to keep the children from attending ours. In several cases competent American teachers have superseded poorly qualified natives and Roman Catholic sisters. In two towns where "any old place" used to be considered good enough in which to hold the school, they are building schoolhouses.

I need not say that our teachers have uniformly encouraged the movement for better public schools. In one case (Cubero) the directors have been glad to pattern a new schoolhouse after ours, and to avail themselves of our teachers' advice.

I need only add that our schools are still far in the lead of the public schools in their respective localities. If they should ever cease to be so, I should consider their mission ended.

In the Sunday school and religious work there have been fluctuations, sometimes unaccountable ones, in interest and attendance.

We greatly need a native evangelist in each town to supplement the work of the schools. The ladies of the New York Missionary Union, who support the San Mateo school, have set a wise example in deciding to support also a native minister. We hope this example will be followed by others.

Then when our Industrial School becomes a reality, it will be the keystone to the arch of which the school work and the evangelistic work are the two sides.

The sale of our former site for the Industrial School at a profit of $2,000 and the purchase of a more desirable site at about the cost of the old one bring us one step nearer the long-sought goal.

We confidently expected to open the school this fall, but in this were destined to disappointment. We confidently hope that the generous patrons of our work will not permit this hope to be deferred longer than until the following fall. "A long pull, a strong pull, and a pull all together" will bring us to the goal, and will put gladness into the hearts of our workers and opportunity into the lives of our Mexican youth.

Atrisco

The total enrollment for the year, 70. Not quite as many as last year, but the average daily attendance was 30, the same as last year. The priest has been very zealous, and we are sure that he influenced some of the people against the school.

Some of the people who did not send their children to us this year would come to our entertainments and say that their children missed the school and wanted to come back, "and if God let them live they would come next year."

The nice new house has made it very pleasant and comfortable for the teachers, and in many ways has made the work lighter and more agreeable.

Our Sunday school and church services have been attended as well as usual, and besides giving about ten dollars to the Home Missionary Society, we have given something toward Rev. Mr. Moya's salary. (This being the first year we have paid toward his salary.)

When we were preparing to celebrate Washington's Birthday, we wanted a large school flag. One morning I asked the children if they would like to give money to buy a flag. I told them if any one did not want to give it was all right, but I wanted only those to buy the flag who really loved it.

They soon brought me five dollars, enough to purchase the flag. They all gave, and did it willingly and in a good spirit.

Now we are so anxious to have a really nice flagpole. An American friend visiting our school at the time of an entertainment remarked,

"How much interest the Mexicans take in the school!"

To close school we decorated the schoolhouse in the hand work of the children, made this year. We had eight quilts (two of them being made by boys), sewing bags, book bags, sofa pillows, handkerchiefs, sewed cards, drawings, writing, etc. Many expressed themselves as grateful for what their children had learned.

Vermont School, Barelas

The total enrollment in the Vermont School for the year has been 64; average attendance, 36. Total number of people who have attended Sabbath school at some time during year, 105. Average attendance, 16. Amount of collections in Sabbath school from September 30, 1906, to June 2, 1907, $3.61; amount contributed to Home Missionary Fund, $6.00.

The item of a small tuition, ten cents a month for first and second grade pupils, and fifteen cents for the more advanced pupils, has proved no obstacle to attendance, the average attendance having been greater than the seating capacity of the room.

The largest number present on any one day was 53; the largest monthly average was 40, and the smallest (for May) was 30.

One of the women, when told that the tuition for her little girl would be ten cents a month, said that she had always thought that this was a government school and that no cost was attached, and she withdrew the little girl from school.

After keeping the little girl in the public school for some time and at home for a longer time, she came to me one morning and insisted that I take two months' tuition in advance, and save a seat for her little girl until she could return.

An unusual thing happened during the Lenten season this year that has been the most encouraging sign of the year. It has heretofore been thought useless to try to have our schools in session during Passion Week, but nothing was said about a vacation, and work went on as usual.

In the city schools of Albuquerque all Catholic children are excused on certain hours of the principal feast days and all days of Passion Week to attend church services. In some of the adjoining school districts, the directors ordered a two days' vacation.

Thirty of our Vermont School boys and girls were in their places on Thursday and 29 on Good Friday morning, and no mention was made of an expected holiday, though we knew from the children playing in our neighborhood that the other schools were having holidays. At noon on Friday I told the children that they had earned the afternoon for playtime, and we would not come back to school until Monday.

On one evening we gave a temperance program to an overcrowded house, and the next Thursday morning the priest presiding over Albuquerque and Barelás held grand mass in the little Barelás chapel. There were 32 children in school that day, and the priest used the occasion to denounce bitterly the Protestant school, and refused the first communion to one of my schoolgirls (a girl thirteen years old).

I did not ask questions or express any feeling of hostility, and felt that all in good time I would know who the little girl was. Don B—— and his family were our nearest neighbors during my first year at Barelás, and were my friends. The family moved away to the Estancia Valley, a long two days' journey, but C——, the eldest child, was brought back to school. The father said to me then:

"If you cannot take her into your school I shall take her back with me, for there is a public school that she can attend, but I want her in your school. She has learned all she knows since she has been with you. No woman in all our country up there in the mountains and the Estancia Valley can sew as C—— can. The comforter she made last year in your school hangs on the wall in our home just as your Navajo blankets do here in your room. I want to pay four months' tuition in advance."

So C—— has been with us all the year and has lived with an aunt. At Christmas time the family came the long wagon journey to visit her. Yesterday morning Don B—— came with C—— to take her home. After his greeting, he said:

"Teacher, Los Padres (the priests) are very angry with me. They refused my little girl her first communion because she is in your school, but I wrote them a letter yesterday, and I am angry with them. I told them that what they had done was of no importance to me; that there was but one God, not two, nor three, nor twenty; that there could be only one true religion; that there were other churches if they did not want my family in their church; but that as long as there was room for my children in this school they should attend no other. I shall bring C—— back next year and also one or two of the others."

May God save with his perfect salvation Don B—— and his family!

There have been many sick ones in our neighborhood this past year. I visit the sick as frequently as possible, and prepare many palatable dishes for the sick ones. They have appreciated this service.

The industrial display on the night of May 30 was excellent. The room was crowded with appreciative visitors, who availed themselves, with the guidance of the older pupils, of the opportunity of closely inspecting the work, which consisted of paste-board baskets worked with name, date, and place by the little ones; also kindergarten sewing cards and some sewing in cloth, and spool-knitting by the little ones; baskets, picture frames, and handkerchief bag of raffia by the older boys; bedroom slippers, knit holders, knit shawl, pieced sofa cushion covers, embroidered sofa cushion covers, pieced comforts, by older girls, and denim book bags by all boys and girls who were old enough to make them. The question asked by nearly all visitors was,

"When did you find time to do it?"

It has required many extra hours of work for the teacher and for the children. Some of the children have come at eight o'clock, or earlier, in the morning, have come again very early after lunch, and have put in other extra hours after school. Industrial work is being made a leading feature each year, with constantly increasing interest manifested. The tuition money is used for needed material, and we have practically tested the limit of our powers along this line, and the interest increases.

Cubero

Enrollment, 67; average attendance, 33; Sabbath school enrollment, 103; average attendance, 15.

Two successive months of serious illness reduced the attendance very materially.

Parents and children alike showed a greater sense of the importance of regularity in attendance, and there was a steadily increasing pride in school work, and consequently a growing loyalty to the school.

The comfort of the teachers (and consequently their efficiency) has been greatly enhanced by the completion of a new addition to the buildings, the money for which was secured by the interest of Miss Sara R. Edwards, of San José, California.

Miss Edwards was the acting associate teacher last year during the enforced absence of the regular associate.

The influence of the school upon the community begins to take more tangible form as the pupils of the earlier years make homes for themselves and become influential members of the community.

We sadly miss three loyal friends, who have been called away by death this spring.

San Mateo

The enrollment was 70 pupils this year, and an average attendance of 31. In Sunday school there has been during the year 103 different people present, with an average of 24.

There are reasons for the small enrollment, as 8 of the boys are in boarding schools, some families have moved out of town, and quite a large number of the boys and girls have married.

The people are interested in the school, and there are only two families in the village who have not patronized it.

A gentleman recently visited the school. He said:

"In the fall I propose to call a meeting of the fathers of families and see if we cannot make some arrangement for the boys to take turns herding the little flocks of goats, so that there will not be such a dearth of boys in the school during the spring and fall."

Miss Smith was here alone last fall for five weeks, Miss Lamson being absent on account of sickness. In December she decided that her health would not permit her to remain longer, and Miss Ruth Willard took her place.

The year has been an exceedingly busy one. There was a siege of sickness the last of January and through February, and the teacher had 35 patients. In April one of the pupils, who was a young mother, died in a few hours, and the teacher was asked to take care of her remains, which she did, and was the "undertaker." She was laid away in her wedding dress. The people greatly appreciated the kindness of the teacher during their great grief.

School year ended May 30. The children do not like to have school close. They say:

"Oh, teacher, don't close school! We don't want you to go away."

One of the neighbors said:

"How I dread to have school close! It seems as though some one is dead, all is so still. How sad this town is when there is no school and our teachers are gone!"

San Rafael

This year Children's Day was celebrated for the first time in San Rafael, and it was enjoyed by all very much. The celebration was marred on account of the fact that the coldness of the weather this spring caused an epidemic of the grip.

In spite of this, however, the program was a success, and all the children seemed to enjoy preparing for it as well as carrying it out.

For a number of Fridays the girls were busy making paper flowers, wreaths, and chains, on account of the lack of real flowers. They were much interested in this, and took delight in cleaning and decorating the schoolhouse for the occasion. The joy of the small boys was to march on the platform with swords and soldier caps to sing a verse of "Comaradas, en los cielos," a Spanish version of "Hold the fort."

Although the day was rainy and unpleasant, the seats were filled with the fathers and mothers. Everything went off well. The faithful attendance of the older girls who took part in the children's day program meant a great deal. They deserve a great deal of credit for their faithfulness, as it often means a sacrifice at home to have them come, for usually the mother thinks that girls of that age are too much needed at home to go to school.

The progress of those who have come regularly is in many cases so striking that it is a treat to teach them. In fact, we are almost glad of the spring decrease in numbers, which gives us a chance to devote more of our time to those who will make the most of it.

The seats in the primary room have lessened the labor in this room to a great extent, for it was necessary to use boxes and broken chairs, and these are hardly conducive to quietness and orderliness.

The Sunday school has been helpful and well attended, the children showing themselves attentive and interested, notwithstanding the disadvantage of the teacher in having to talk to so many different ages.

This year the International Sunday School Lessons have not been used, but we began with the birth of Christ and took nearly all the important events of his life up to his death and ascension, using for pictures the rolls and cards of past years. This has seemed satisfactory, as there are often lessons in the regular course which are hard to adapt to the needs and understanding of our school. Also, the International Lessons are arranged with reference to the calendar year, which does not at all coincide with the school year.

The primary teacher was much surprised and pleased when explaining a selection, "My two little hands are for Jesus," etc., at the accuracy and interest with which some of the little folks told what they might do for Jesus, ideas received in the Sunday school talks.

The total enrollment is 88; average attendance, 35.

Seboyeta

In spite of the monotonous grind of mission teaching this year's experiences have seemed unlike those of other years. The school work has been more prosperous than in the past, owing to the fact that the pupils have been compelled to attend school regularly. From the first day an effort was made to inspire a wholesome fear of the teachers' indignation when they miss a day without their consent. They have literally gone out into the byways and hedges and brought them in. They have got into all manner of scraps and contentions, and have had a varied list of epithets hurled at them by pupils, parents, grandparents, and great-grandparents for their persistence. But when the people saw that they did not mean to be moved, they submitted to the inevitable, and confess that their children have learned much more because of the regular attendance.

Throughout the year the pupils have come regularly, unless they had good excuse.

Until February our enrollment and daily attendance were the same. But in midwinter an epidemic swept through the town and many of the children were out because of sickness. The school has been larger than last year, 50 being the enrollment for the entire year, and more has been accomplished than ever before in one year.

It is a delight to have the people express their appreciation and good will by bringing to the teachers chile, legs of mutton, and other delicacies too numerous to mention. One of our boys was shot and another was stabbed, and a number of drunken men had a quarrel in front of the mission and threw a rock at the building, cutting a deep hole over a foot long.

One family that had left the town two years ago came down out of the mountains fifteen or twenty miles to hear again the hymns sung at the services.

They said they were so hungry for these songs that they could wait no longer, and though they arrived late at night the teachers sang for nearly two hours. The next day they spent with us, and much of the time was passed in singing. When evening came they decided to stay over Sunday to attend our Sunday services, and much of the Sabbath was spent in song.

Though the school work has ended the teachers' work goes on, for measles broke out in the town, and there will be a long siege of nursing. The mothers depend on the teachers to stay with them till the epidemic passes.

And so, between the teaching, nursing, and preaching, good is being done.

TREASURER

It shall be the duty of the Treasurer to receive all money contributed or entrusted to the Society and to give receipts therefor; to deposit it to the credit of the Society in such bank or institution as may be designated by the Finance Committee; to keep clear and accurate account of all sums received and expended by the Society; to make payments and remittances in accordance with the appropriations voted by the Board of Directors; to pay all bills and debts of the Society when approved by the chairman of the Finance Committee, and to pay over to the designated beneficiaries or other proper persons any and all special contributions and dues; to indorse checks and drafts for deposit and sign checks for the purposes of the Society; to report to the Finance Committee and Board of Directors each month the receipts and disbursements for the previous month, and at the end of the fiscal year for the year, and to keep all books of account required by them; and to perform such other acts as are necessary to the faithful execution of the duties of his office.

His books of account and vouchers for payments shall at all times be open to the inspection of any member of the Board of Directors and shall be submitted by him each month to the Finance Committee for their examination.

It shall be his duty to present to the Standing and Special Committees and to the Board of Directors such financial business as needs their action.

He shall jointly with the President sign, execute, acknowledge, and deliver in behalf of the Society any and all deeds or any other conveyances and instruments, in writing, relating to any real estate owned by the Society and in its name, to such parties as the Directors shall authorize.

The Treasurer shall also release and discharge mortgages, assignments, insurance policies, and other necessary papers when properly authorized.

He shall give bonds for the faithful discharge of his duties with such sureties as shall be satisfactory to the Directors.

The Directors may from time to time appoint an Assistant Treasurer and define his powers and duties, which may include any or all duties given by law or this Constitution to the Treasurer.

The Assistant Treasurer shall hold office during the pleasure of the Board of Directors, and the office may be filled or left vacant.

ARTICLE IX

AUDITOR

The Auditor shall audit all accounts of the Treasurer and examine the invested funds of the Society and give to the Directors in writing his certificate as to the correctness of the same.

ARTICLE X

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The Board of Directors shall have charge of all affairs and manage all business of the Society concerning which no other provision is made. They shall appoint committees to examine students applying for assistance, and shall take such action upon their recommendations as they may deem wise. They shall determine what institutions shall be aided, and shall grant them money as the state of the treasury may permit. They may by vote authorize the sale or conveyance of any real estate the Society may own, to such person or persons and upon such terms as they may determine; such conveyances to be signed, executed, acknowledged, and delivered in the name of and in behalf of the Society by the President and Treasurer, as hereinbefore provided. They shall have authority to make such rules as they may deem best in regard to the calling of meetings of the Board and the number that shall constitute a quorum; to choose an Institutions Committee and a Student Aid Committee, upon whose recommendations the Board may take such action as they may judge expedient; to appoint a Finance Committee, one of whose duties shall be the making of investments. They shall also have power to appoint District or Field Secretaries, or establish any agency which they may consider necessary, and shall have power to fill, until the next annual meeting, any vacancy in their own number or in any office of the Society. The Board of Directors shall present a report of the work of the Society at each annual meeting. The meetings of the Board shall ordinarily be held in Boston. At least one meeting in each year shall be held in Chicago. All meetings shall be held in the office of the Society, either at Boston or Chicago, unless otherwise ordered.

The Western members of the Board, that is, members residing west of the state of New York, may hold stated meetings of their section at such times as they may appoint; and they may, whenever they see fit, designate one of their number to attend any meeting of the Directors to be held in Boston, and his traveling expenses may be paid by the Society; and the Eastern members shall have the right, in like manner and upon the same terms, to designate two of their number to attend any similar meeting to be held in Chicago.

ARTICLE XI

AMENDMENTS

This Constitution may be changed by a vote of two-thirds of the members present and entitled to vote at any meeting of the Society duly called and organized, notice of the proposed change being given in the call of the meeting at which action is to be taken.

RULES OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

ADOPTED SEPTEMBER 12, 1904

RULE 1. Organization. The Board of Directors shall assemble for organization on the Monday after the annual meeting of the Society, notice of the meeting being sent by the Secretary of the Society. They shall elect by ballot a Chairman and a Clerk, a Finance Committee, an Institutions Committee, a Student Aid Committee, each of which shall have six members, besides the President and Vice-President, who shall be ex officio members of all committees.

RULE 2. Meetings. The Directors shall hold regular meetings on the second Monday of each month, excepting that the August meeting may be omitted by vote of the Directors. Special meetings shall be called at the written request of three Directors, by giving three days' notice, by letter, to each member of the Board, stating the time, place, and object of the meeting. Seven Directors shall constitute a quorum.

RULE 3. Committees. Within two weeks after the election of the Finance, Institutions, and Student Aid Committees a meeting of each of them shall be held in Boston, at which a Chairman and a Clerk shall be elected by ballot. Such meeting shall be called by the Clerk of the Board of Directors, who shall notify each member seven days, at least, before the meeting. Each of said committees shall hold a regular monthly meeting, except in August, and the Clerk's records and all reports or abstracts of them, or copy of them, shall be kept in the rooms of the Society, in the care of the Secretary, and be open to the examination of the Directors. Other meetings of any of the said committees shall be held whenever the Chairman or any two members shall so request the Clerk in writing, provided notice of the time and place of the meeting is mailed or delivered to each member one day, at least, before the meeting. At any of the meetings aforesaid three members shall constitute a quorum.

RULE 4. Finance Committee. It shall be the duty of the Finance Committee to cause to be kept a book, wherein shall be set forth in detail: (1) all stocks and bonds owned by the Society, at par, with a statement of the original cost of the same to the Society; (2) all real estate (both land and buildings) and other property of the Society, with the full cost of the same; and (3) all property held on special deposit or in trust. This book shall be at all times open to the inspection of any member of the Board of Directors, and the record shall be so amended from time to time, under the direction of the Finance Committee, as to show at all times a correct statement of the property of the Society and of any special trusts in its hands. All title deeds to real estate, mortgages, insurance policies, and certificates of stocks and bonds owned by the Society shall be in the care and custody of the Treasurer, under the direction of this committee, who shall provide a proper place for their safe keeping. They shall also, when occasion requires, direct the sale and transfer of stocks, bonds or mortgages, invest any surplus, or other specific funds of the Society, and in general, subject to the approval of the Board of Directors, shall have the charge of the Society's financial concerns not otherwise provided for. But no investment shall be made without the approval by affirmative vote, or in writing, if otherwise, of at least four members of the committee. The chairman of the committee shall approve all bills before payment thereof by the Treasurer.

RULE 5. Institutions Committee. The Institutions Committee shall keep a book of all institutions aided by the Society and the amount granted to each, and make recommendations to the Directors of the institutions which should receive aid. The committee may also be divided into subcommittees, who may investigate and advise upon particular institutions intrusted to them.

RULE 6. The Student Aid Committee. The Student Aid Committee shall keep a book, containing the names of all students aided by the Society and the amount of the several grants; also recommend to the Directors those whom they approve for aid. The committee may likewise be divided into subcommittees for purposes of investigation and advice.

RULE 7. Western Members. The Western members will be expected to give counsel upon the appropriation of money for such academies and schools, and they shall once, at least, each year transmit to the Board at Boston a summary statement of the condition and requirements of the Society's work, as viewed by them, and this statement shall be a special topic of consideration at the first meeting of the Board after its reception.

No action shall be taken at a meeting held in either section of the country in respect to which the judgment of the members resident in the other section is specially needed, unless seasonable notice shall have been given that such action is contemplated.

A full and attested copy of the record of each meeting of the Board of Directors held in Boston shall be immediately forwarded to Chicago, and shall be either filed or transcribed in such a manner as to form a permanent record at Chicago; and an attested record of the doings of each meeting of the Board held at Chicago shall be entered upon the permanent record of the Board in Boston. A summary statement of the business done at each meeting of the members of the Western section of the Board shall also be promptly transmitted to Boston.

RULE 8. Absences. Any Eastern Director who shall be absent from one-third of the stated meetings of the Board held during any one year at Boston, or any Western Director who shall be absent from one-third of the stated meetings held during any one year at Chicago, including the meetings of the Board and of the Western section of the Board, unless excused for such absence for adequate reason by the Board or its Western section, as the case may be, shall be deemed to have vacated his office as Director, and the vacancy thus created shall be filled by the election of some other person at the next annual meeting of the Society.

RULE 9. Grants to Students. Applications for scholarships granted by this Society to students for the ministry are approved under the following rules and conditions.

(a) The Society wishes to aid young men of ability and promise who are studying in preparation for the ministry, and who are in need of assistance. The Directors rely largely upon the men themselves, who are thus aided, for assurance that their need of help is real, that they are prudent, economical in the use of money, and that they are shaping their habits of life in a manner becoming to those who are to be teachers and leaders in the Christian church, and specifically abstaining from the use of intoxicants and tobacco.

(b) To receive a grant a student in college must have reached the grade of sophomore, and must have maintained a standard in scholarship of seventy-five per cent, or an equivalent degree under varying marking systems. A beneficiary in a theological seminary must be a graduate of some college of good standing, or a man of such qualifications and promise as may largely compensate for the lack of a college course. The Directors may make grants in special cases to students outside these regular classifications.

(c) It is optional with the student whether the grant be a loan or a gift. If taken as a loan the student shall forward his note for the amount. Such notes, if paid within three years after entering the ministry, shall bear no interest, but from that time they shall bear interest at three per cent.

(d) Scholarships are assigned for one year only. Renewal must be secured by a new application each year, but may not be obtained beyond six consecutive years. The amount of the regular scholarship at present is fifty (50) dollars per annum, payable in two equal installments, December 1 and April 1. Applications should be forwarded to the Secretary before November 1 or March 1.

(e) The Board of Directors shall appoint examining committees, consisting of three persons each at different institutions, throughout the country to make careful inquiry concerning the applicant's religious character, credentials, his motives for seeking the ministry, his abilities, attainments, and promise, also his need of pecuniary aid and his willingness to conform to the rules of the Society. The Directors must depend almost entirely upon the personal estimates which are furnished by the committees appointed for that purpose in the colleges and seminaries with which these students are connected, therefore they expect that these estimates are prepared with carefulness from individual knowledge, and express distinctly the personal judgment of those from whom they come. If the committee decide to recommend an applicant they shall direct him to state in the form of application his name, age, residence, place of education, church membership, need of assistance, and any other facts which may be deemed important.

If there is no regular examining committee in the institution which a student desiring assistance is attending, the Secretary of the Society may be notified of his wish for assistance and a special committee be appointed to examine him.

(f) Before receiving a grant the applicant must give expression to his purpose of devoting his life to the Christian ministry and of taking a full course of theological education, promising that if he shall change his purpose of entering the ministry, he will, within three years after the date of the latest payment, and unless especially released by the Directors for good reasons shown, repay to the Society the whole amount of money received, with three per cent interest on the same from the time of receiving it.

(g) The income which shall provide for the payment of scholarships shall be derived from the interest upon invested funds given for this purpose, and from the gifts of the churches and of special friends for the same object. A gift of one thousand dollars ($1,000), constituting a permanent fund, of which the interest alone shall be used, shall bear the name of the donor, or such name as he may assign. The income of such a fund shall be at once and perpetually applied to the support of a student in prosecuting his studies for the ministry. Such a donor may name a student as the recipient of such a scholarship, provided his application is duly made and approved according to the regulations of the Society. The Society will act as the almoner for any benevolent individuals who desire to assist worthy young men to prepare for the ministry or to procure a Christian education, and will take charge of any funds intrusted to it for this purpose, applying them for the objects and persons designated.

RULE 10. Grants to Institutions. The rules and conditions under which the Society will aid an institution are :

1. It must present to the Directors a certified copy of its act of incorporation.
2. A certified copy of its by-laws.
3. The names of its trustees and number of its students of its several classes.
4. An abstract of title of the property to be covered by mortgage.

5. It must have secured in fee simple and unencumbered, sufficient ground for buildings and campus and assets in buildings, or in money, or in both, to the amount of $5,000.

6. No appropriation voted by the Board of Directors is payable to any institution which shall not prior to such payment have furnished to the Secretary evidence that the property is adequately insured.

7. The institution must be indorsed by the State Association or Conference of the Congregational churches, and by the local Association or Conference within the bounds of whose territory it is located, and it must annually report to the State Association or Conference and have the continued approval of the same so long as it receives aid from the Society.

8. No college will be aided until it has a freshman class of at least four students, and all other institutions must have such a number of students and such status as shall afford evidence of permanency. Every academy must be prepared to give thorough preparation for college.

9. It shall be the duty of the president or principal of each institution that receives aid from the Society to report to the Directors at least annually the financial condition of the institution, the number of its students, and all such facts in regard to its prosperity as it may be desirable for the Directors to know.

10. As the preparation, execution, and approval of the papers require time, the institution should notify the Board of Directors of this Society when the institution will be ready for the payment, and should forward papers named above three months before payment is expected to be made.

11. The time for the Board of Directors voting upon applications for current expenses is their regular meeting on the second Monday in June.

12. Application for aid must be made by a formal vote of corporate board of trustees of the institution, who must also give to this Society a first mortgage, with the usual covenants and power to foreclose (unless such action be illegal by the laws of the state), which must also be recorded, on its building and real estate to cover the sum which has been given or may be given to this institution, in case of a failure to carry out the conditions upon which such appropriations are made, namely:

(a) The institution must be and continue under the control of a self-perpetuating board of trustees, a majority of whom shall always be members in good and regular standing in a Congregational church.

(b) Every school and college aided by this Society must maintain the characteristics of a vitally Christian institution. It is expected that special attention will be given to the study of the Bible and to development of Christian character in the pupils, and that every president and principal shall be members of an evangelical church.

(c) All money received from the Society (except such as may have been designated by the donor or by unanimous vote of the Directors for other use) must be applied by the institution to the payment of salaries, to purchase of books, apparatus, or permanent endowment of chairs of instruction according to the instructions of the Directors.

(d) On failure to carry out any of the above named conditions, or in case the trustees in their management of an institution become subject to political or ecclesiastical control other than Congregational, or shall in any way be diverted from the policy of the said Congregational Education Society, as at present defined in its charter and by-laws, the Society may demand repayment of all sums advanced, and enter and foreclose their mortgage on the property.

13. In order to secure the early occupation of promising fields, and also to exert a more direct influence through the agency of Christian education in sections not yet provided with good common schools, this Society may establish and temporarily maintain academies, training and other schools in localities where it would not be possible or advisable to create local corporations. These it may own, manage, and control, with the ultimate purpose of placing them under the care of self-perpetuating boards of trustees or of disposing of them as the best interests of Christian education may seem to demand.

14. All institutions aided by the Society, either through their federation with the Society by states or by direct grants from the general fund, shall be treated as institutions under the care of the Society. The Society may also act as almoner for individual donors to institutions in the above classes and for other specified Congregational institutions.

RULE II. Amendments. These rules may be changed by a two-thirds vote of those present and voting at any regular meeting of the Directors, notice of the proposed amendment having been given in writing at a previous meeting and in the call sent out for such meeting.
